PLEADS GUILTY TO STEALING HORSE

Charles Staton, of Indianapolis, Arrested at Jeffersonville, for Theft Here.

ACCOMPANIED BY WOMAN

Mrs. Maggie Spurrier Released on Parole From Woman's Prison Will be Returned.

Charles Staton and Maggie Spurrier, both of Indianapolis, were arrested at Jeffersonville early Sunday morning upon the charge of stealing a horse and buggy belonging to Louis Fox, of Reddington, which had been left at a hitch rack at the corner of Ewing and Second streets. Chief of Police McCord went to Jeffersonville Sunday afternoon after the couple. They were arraigned in police court this morning on charges of grand larceny. Staton pleaded guilty and the Spurrier woman entered a plea of not guilty. Staton told the officers that he was guilty and attempted to shield the woman with him. Mrs. Spurrier was accompanied by her little six-year-old daughter.

After the police were informed of the theft of the horse and vehicle a description of the animal and buggy was sent to the sheriffs of the adjoining counties. The Jeffersonville police were also told of the theft and asked to watch the highways leading to that city. The arrests were made as the couple were driving into Jeffersonville about 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mr. Fox, the owner of the rig, accompanied Chief of Police McCord to Jeffersonville and will drive the horse back. The animal showed that it had been driven hard and could not be brought back until today.

Staton, according to the police, has served a term in the federal prison at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, for deserting from the United States army. His mother resides at Indianapolis and as soon as he was returned here he wrote her a postal card telling of his arrest and also asked her for $2. He told her not to worry and that he would be home sometime although he fully expected to serve a long term in the state reformatory.

This is not the Spurrier woman's first offense of horse stealing. About six years ago she and her niece, Miss Florence Knox, were sent to the woman's prison at Indianapolis for stealing a horse from a physician at Columbus. She told the local police that her niece stole the horse and that she rode in the buggy from Columbus to Crothersville. She was released from the woman's prison on parole nine months ago and her parole will not expire for three months.

Chief of Police McCord telephoned to the matron of the woman's prison this morning and told her of the arrest of the Spurrier woman. The matron said they would send an officer after her at once. She was sentenced to a term of from two to fourteen years and has about eight years yet to serve.

Mrs. Spurrier told the police that she did not know that Staton had stolen the horse. She said they started to walk from Indianapolis over a week ago. The police found that they asked for food at a farm house just north of the city about 6 o'clock and walked to Seymour. Mrs. Spurrier said her husband was released from the state prison on parole a short time ago and lived at Indianapolis. She further stated that his name was Rufus Spurrier and that they had lived in Seymour at one time and that he was employed in a cooper shop. It is not known what disposition will be made of the child.

When arraigned the Spurrier woman said she did not know that Staton had stolen the horse and buggy as he had told her that he had traded for it. She admitted, however that she was aware that he had no money or property with which the trade could have been consumated. She told the police Staton told her that he expected to dispose of the horse and buggy at the first opportunity and this made her suspicious that he had stolen them. She said she had relatives living in this county.

Staton was unable to give bond and was bound over to circuit court. He was taken to the county jail this morning. He said he had known the woman for a short time having met her at Indianapolis. The woman told the police she had known Staton for about ten years. She told several conflicting stories as to when they left Indianapolis and how long they had been on the way here.

MOTHER OF LOCAL PASTOR DIES OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Mrs. Catherine Eggers Succumbs to Bright's Disease—Funeral Tuesday Afternoon.

Mrs. Catherine Eggers, mother of Rev. Ernest H. Eggers, pastor of the German Lutheran Evangelical church, died Sunday night at 8 o'clock at his home on South Walnut street. She was ill with Bright's disease and a complication of diseases for some time but her condition was critical during the last week.

Catherine Bohn was born October 26, 1847 at Philadelphia. She was united in marriage to Ernest A. Eggers and after her marriage resided at various times at Philadelphia, St. Louis, Kendallville, Ind., and Homewood, Ill. She is survived by ten children, four sons and six daughters. Since last October she made her home n this city with Rev. Eggers. Although she had lived here but a few months she made a large number of acquaintances who valued her friendship. She was a member of the German Lutheran church and was an excellent woman.

Short funeral services will be held from the parsonage of the German Lutheran church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the remains will be sent to Homewood, Ill., her former home for burial

MRS. BARBARA FETTIG IS CALLED BY DEATH SUNDAY

Widow of An Early Seymour Merchant Passes Away After Long Illness.

Mrs. Barbara Fettig, widow of the late Joseph Fettig, one of the early merchants of this city, died at 3:20 o'clock Sunday following an extended illness with heart trouble and dropsy. She was seventy-six years of age on the ninth day of February and her condition was critical since the death of her husband January 6.

Mrs. Fettig was the daughter of Balser and Margaret Oliger and was born at Cheviot, O., February 9, 1838. When she was twelve years of age she moved to Jennings county

5,000 MILITIAMEN READY TO MARCH

Indiana National Guards May be Called to Front on Account of Mexican Trouble.

STATE HAS THREE REGIMENTS

Adjutant General Bridges Says There Would be no Difficulty in Enlisting Volunteers.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 20—What part Indiana would play in case of intervention in Mexico was freely discussed about the office of Adjutant General Bridges at the statehouse today. The recent Mexican crisis closely followed by the request from Washington sent to every state for an accounting of national guard resources caused many to believe that the administration did not yet think itself out of the Mexican woods.

Within twenty or thirty days after a call to arms Indiana could have 5,000 men in mobilization camp, said the adjutant general. Many of these men would be raw volunteers. Scarcely more than half would have had training in drills. All of them would be comparatively "soft". But there would be 5,000 men to turn over to the government, and Hoosiers make good soldiers when they are hardened.

As Bridges outlined it, some point near the Mexican border probably would be chosen for the mobilization camp. He believed that one corps might be made up of the national guards of Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan. The various brigades would be rushed to the camp by regiments as fast as they were placed on a war basis. To place them on this basis it would first be necessary to enlist many new men.

"We never have trouble getting volunteers in time of war", said General Bridges. "It is in time of peace that the enlistment is at low ebb. Each company is now kept at the minimum of 58. It would be raised as quickly as possible to the war footing of 108 in case of invasion of Mexico. There would be some delay in this, and there would be more delay in getting equipment for the new men—rifles, uniforms etc. In all, it would take about twenty or thirty days to place the Indiana National Guards on a war basis."

Indiana has three regiments. There would be enlarged to 1,200 men in each in case of war. This would total 3,600 men. There are three battalions of artillery, having 133 men each. These battalions are equipped with six there-inch field guns each aside from small arms.

Quartered at Frankfort, Indiana has a crack ambulance corps. According to Bridges it is one of the best in the United States. It is captained by Dr. A. G. Chittick. This would be called into service, as would the newly organized signal corps in Indianapolis. The signal and ambulance companies are armed with revolvers. The ambulance company is a comparatively new thing in the national guards. It is proposed to aid the hospital corps in case of actual fighting. The Franklin corps

WARNING ISSUED TO AMERICANS

War Departments Urges Foreigners to Depart From Mexico for Their Own Safety.

MANY GO TO VERA CRUZ TODAY

Attempted Massacres Reported and Feared That Huerta Cannot Cope With Situation.

By United Press.

Washington, April 20—The United States war department today sent word to all American citizens in Mexico to leave Mexican soil at once for their own safety. This order was issued by the department as it is not known that protection can be given all foreigners although Huerta has promised to protect foreigners.

All American merchant vessels at Vera Cruz were ordered by the naval department to leave the Mexican waters immediately.

A dispatch received from Mexico City states that two train loads of American refugees left that city early today for Vera Cruz. Extra trains have been arranged for a general exodus. Huerta is endeavoring to protect foreigners but there is grave fear if the federal forces will be able to do so if the many rumors of attempted massacres prove well founded.

AREOPLANES TO BE USED ALONG MEXICAN BORDER

Two Companies of Coast Artillery Left San Diego This Morning For Border.

By United Press.

San Diego, Cal., April 20—Two companies of coast artillery left Fort Rosencrane at 5 o'clock this morning for the Mexican border. Five areoplanes are being packed for immediate shipment to the border points.

COMPARISON WAR STRENGTH OF UNCLE SAM AND MEXICO

About 84,000 Federal Soldiers Could Be Called Upon By Executive of Mexico.

Washington, April 20—The Mexican navy consists of five gunboats, the Bravo, Morales, Tampico, Vera Cruz and the Zaragoza. There also are two armed transports. Unless the rebels come to Huerta's aid it is doubtful whether he could raise an army of 50,000 men.

The total war strength of the Mexican Federal army, according to the best figures obtainable, is 84,000 men.

The infantry is armed with the Mauser rifle, model of 1901, and the cavalry carry the Mauser carbine. The reserves have only the Remmgton rifle of 1893. The Mexican army consists of 107 Generals, 6,236 officers and about 50,000 men.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED JUSTIFYING PRESIDENT EMPLOYING ARMED FORCE

Wilson Reads Message to Congress and Makes it Plain That if War Should Result Fighting Would be Only Against Huerta and His Representatives.

REVIEWS INSULTS TO UNITED STATES FLAG

Declares That Apparently Huerta Wanted to Force the Issue But That U. S. Would Keep Influence Unimpaired for Benefit of Mankind.

Bulletin.

By United Press.

Washington, April 20—The house and senate foreign affairs committee jointly adopted a resolution this afternoon "justifying the employment of armed forces by the U. S. in enforcing the demands against Victoraino Huerta." The resolution was that the President was justified in the employment of armed forces to enforce the demands for amends to United States for indignities by Huerta and his representatives.

By United Press.

Washington, April 20—If the Mexico situation should demand an armed conflict to uphold the dignity of the United States this country would fight only Huerta and those who adhere to him and not Mexico as a nation, according to the statement of President Wilson before congress this afternoon. The whole purpose of war would be to aid Mexican people and not for the accomplishment of any selfish end of the United States.

President Wilson personally went before congress this afternoon and in a concise message explained the entire Mexican situation. After relating in detail the events leading up to the present situation he asked congress for its advice and cooperation.

The President declared that on April 9th S. Dolphin, a U. S. Paymaster, was arrested by one of Huerta's officers, although his ship carried the American flag. The President described other insults to the flag and stated that apparently Huerta desired to force trouble with the United States.

In his message the President described the steps leading up to the demand for the salute to the flag as reparation for the affront and that Huerta had refused to comply with the request.

The President said he "earnestly hoped that under no circumstances will we be forced into war with Mexico. The United States does not want to control the affairs of our sister natoin."

"If armed conflict should unhappily come we should be fighting only Huerta and those who adhere to him and support him. Our object would be to restore to the people of a distressed Republic an opportunity to again set up their own laws and their own government."

"There can be no thought of selfish aggrandizement. We seek to maintain the dignity of the United States because we wish to keep our great influence unimpaired for the benefit of mankind."

The President made it plain that he did not want war but justice and that he did not desire such acts as are planned as acts but measures short of war.

President Wilson today protested against the belief that this country must necessarily be plunged in war with Mexico because of the Huerta incident. He insisted that actual warfare may not be necessary at all.

At Washington the belief prevails that the Mexican rebel forces would not side with Huerta and the President stated that this country had no intention of fighting the representative Mexicans.

It was planned by the President that according to the present plans the Mexican ports would be blockaded but the army and navy would be held in check to await further developments.

The question of recalling Charge O'Shaughnessy had not yet been brought up.

Major General Leonard Wood who was to have retired Wednesday from the highest active position of the United States army, will take command of the forces if an invasion is ordered. Secretary Daniels made this announcement today, adding that General Wood would go to Texas to command the army, if necessary.'

General Wood was the man who Roosevelt called a "bully good soldier" when he was advanced to his high position because of his ability. He is not a graduate of West Point.

Wood's rise in the army has been spectacular. He was first heard of as Colonel of the famous Rough Riders. He was a physician and a army surgeon, a man of extraordinary personal magnetism. Roosevelt picked him as an ideal type of commander. Personally he and Wood were cronies. Wood rode horseback like a centaur; so did Roosevelt. The Rough Riders waxed famous after Santiago, and Wood also. He was called into the regular army and went ahead by leaps and bounds. His rapid promotion was the cause of considerable comment in the army, and was accentuated by the old fight between

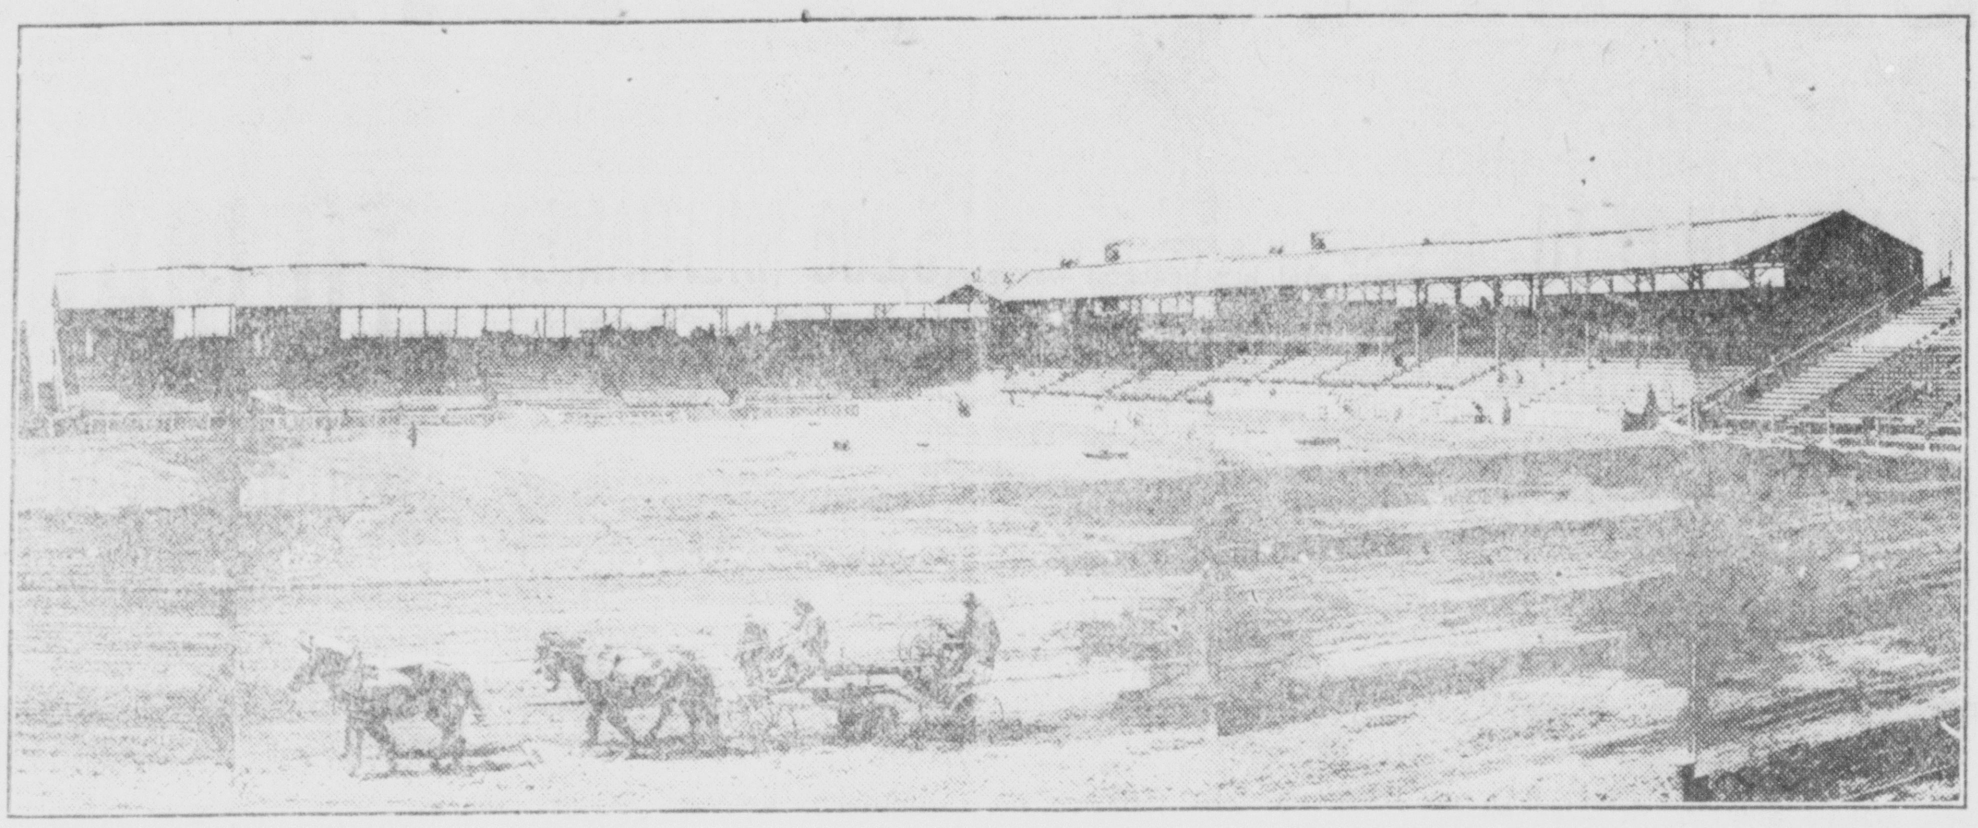
MAGNIFICENT FEDERAL LEAGUE PARK TO BE DEDICATED ON APRIL THE TWENTY-THIRD



Indianapolis, Ind., April 20.—The magnificent new park of the Indianapolis Federal League baseball club will be dedicated Thursday, April 23, when the season of the new major league for 1914 will be formally opened in this city, and when the Hoosiers will meet Mordecai Brown's St. Louis team. Elaborate ceremonies will mark the opening of the season and the dedication of the new park. Before the game there will be a monster parade led by the Indianapolis Military Band of sixty-five pieces. The two teams will participate, as will hundreds of fans who are boosters for the new major league. The new park represents a total investment of $250,000, real estate and all. The grandstand, bleachers, field and equipment represents an investment of $100,000. The park seats 19,964 persons without crowding, and on big days will easily accommodate 25,000. It is located at Kentucky avenue and West streets, four blocks down Kentucky avenue from Washington and Illinois streets, and five minutes' walk from the Claypool Hotel. The Federal League has been officially designated by "Sporting Life," the foremost baseball authority in the country, as a major league, and the opening game will be the first in which Indianapolis has ever participated as a major league city. The indications are that thousands of fans will pour into the city to attend the game, see the park and watch Mordecai Brown, Bill Rariden, Cy Falkenberg, Jimmie Esmond, Vincent Campbell, Everett Booe, Bill McKechnie, George Mullin and other stars equally as famous. Business Manager W. H. Watkins announced today that a big delegation of St. Louis fans will accompany the St. Louis team to Indianapolis. He also announced that the prices of tickets for the season will be: Boxes, $1; grandstand reserved opera chairs, 75 cents; pavilion seats, 50 cents; bleachers, 25 cents. Seats or boxes, he said, can be reserved by mail.

MINORITY STOCKHOLDERS OPPOSE RAILROAD MERGER

Plaintiffs Allege Deal Was Consumated to "Freeze Out" Small Owners.

By United Press.

Michigan City, Ind., April 20—In the circuit court at Valparaiso today Judge H. B. Tuthill of this city began the trial of the case of the minority stockholders of the Gary & Interurban Railway Co. to set aside the merger of that road with the interests of the Chicago—New York Air Line, a road that has been constructed through Elkhart, St. Joseph, La-Porte and Porter counties of Gary.

The minority stockholders of the Gary & Interurban road are represented by E. G. Raff of South Bend. The two roads were merged more than a year ago under the name of the Gary & Interurban, and the new concern was capitalized at $5,500,000 with permission to increase the capital to $7,000,000. Mr. Raff avers in his complaint that the Chicago—New York Air Line was a losing proposition, and that the people who held stock in both roads accomplished the merger to freeze out the little stockholders and to save themselves from permanent loss by uniting with the profitable Gary & Interurban.

Raff claims that in 1912 the Gary & Interurban, which has 25 miles in and around Gary, earned $94,000. Attorneys for the corporation hold that the consolidation of the stock was entirely legal and say they have no fear of the outcome.

HEAVY DEATH TOLL AMONG VETERANS

497,379 Survivors of Civil War on Pension Roll at Close of Fiscal Year 1912.

36, 064 DIED DURING YEAR

Average Age of Pensioner Who Served in Conflict Between States is Seventy-two Years.

According to figures compiled at Washington the toll of death among the civil war survivors has been very heavy the past year or two. The number of civil war survivors, on the roll at the end of the fiscal year 1913 was 497,379. The number of civil war survivors on the pension roll who died during the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1912, was 33,891, and the number who died during the fiscal year which came to an end June 30, 1913, was 36,064.

Since 1861 there have been allowed by special acts of the congress 42,338 pensions or increases of pensions, of which 22,016 are now on the roll, with an annual face value of $6,699,096. Only a part of this is properly chargeable to special acts, however, as most of the beneficiaries have been previously pensioned under general laws at lower rates. From June 30, 1912, and thereafter during the Sixty-second Congress, 2,871 persons, and many of whom are Indianians, were included in the special acts passed.

During the last six months of the last fiscal year there were a number of changes in the pension roll. The number of pensioners on the roll July 1st, 1913, was 820,200. The gains on the roll were as follows: Originals, 8,870; restoration, 21, and renewals, 140, making an aggregate of 829,231 pensioners on the roll. The losses to the roll during the period were as follows: by death, 22,542; by remarriage, 332; by limitation—minors—277; by failure to claim, 80, and from other causes, 113, making a total loss of 23,344, and leaving the number of pensioners on the roll on December 31, 1913, 805,887, a total decrease of 14,313.

About $10,000,000 of the $169,150,000 carried in the pension appropriation bill for the next fiscal year, will be expended for the relief of the 49,000 pensioners in Indiana.

During the last year Indiana ranked fifth in the list of states in the number of pensioners on the rolls and the amount paid as pensions by the federal government.

There are now no pensioners on account of the Revolutionary war on the roll. The last widow pensioner of the war was Mrs. Esther S. Damon, of Plymouth Union, Vt., who died November 11, 1906, at the age of ninety-two. The last survivor of the revolution was Daniel F. Bakeman, who died at Freedom, Cattaraugus N. Y., April 5, 1869, at the age of one hundred and nine years, six months and eight days.

The last surviving pensioned soldier of the war of 1812 was Hiram Cronk, of Ava, N. Y., who died May 13, 1905, at the age of one hundred and five years, sixteen days. The names of 199 widows of the war of 1812 remained on the pension roll June 30, 1913.

Of the 820,200 pensioners on the roll at the close of the last year, 513,633 were persons who rendered service in the army or navy of the United States, including 328 army nurses, the remaining 315,567 being pensioned as widows and dependents. The number of individuals who served in the army and navy of the United States during the civil war is estimated at 2,213,365. The average age of the pensioners who served in the civil war is seventy-two years, according to the estimates made recently by the commissioner of pensions, Mr. Saltzgaber.

Care of Trees

Millions of trees die yearly from insect pests, scale and improper trimming; takes lifetime to grow a tree. Your trees on the lawn need care. Your orchards, if you want fruit, should be looked after; scientific treatment is necessary. We will be ready to do spraying on trees and shrubs.

We also handle roses, shrubs, ornamental and fruit trees, lawn seed and lawn fertilizer. Our 100 gallon power spray will be here in a few days and will then be ready to do your spraying.

Indianapolis, April 20.—At their state convention here Indiana Progressives nominated Albert J. Beveridge for United States senator and chose a complete ticket for state offices. The scenes attendant on the nomination of Beveridge were thrilling. His response "All right," to a vigorous nominating speech by Frederick Landis of Logansport set the convention in an uproar. Bands played, men shouted and applauded and women waved their handkerchiefs. There were parades in the aisles and a general rush toward Beveridge, who accepted it all ressignedly when he saw that the convention had won out in its determination to nominate him.

Besides the senatorial situation, unquestionably the utmost interest in the convention centered around the party's declaration on the liquor traffic. It was settled by a plank declaring the party's belief that the question of prohibition should be put up to the people themselves irrespective of political parties. The threatened outbreak of some delegates who were stanchly demanding a plank for statewide prohibition, did not materialize, as those delegates were finally convinced that the convention hardly would override the report of the resolutions committee.

Edwin M. Lee, retiring state chairman, rapped for order and turned the gavel over to W. D. Headrick, chairman. The delegates listened to addresses by Senator Miles Poindexter, Senator Moses E. Clapp, Charles Sumner Bird and Mr. Beveridge. Mr. Beveridge's nomination followed immediately on the adoption of the platform. In his speech Mr. Landis said the call for Mr. Beveridge did not come from the politicians, but it comes from the common people of Indiana. The former senator's acceptance was voiced in two words: "All right."

"I did not mean to, but I will," he continued, "and I cannot answer your devotion except with a full heart."

COSTLY BLAZE AT WINONA

Handsome Cottages Consumed by Fire From Burning Leaves.

Warsaw, Ind., April 20.—Winona Lake suffered a loss of between $100,000 and $150,000 as the result of a fire which started from burning leaves. The fire started within fifty feet of the big Winona hotel, and for a time that structure seemed doomed. A sudden turn in the wind drove the fire into the residence section and before it was checked twenty-four cottages had been destroyed, among them being some of the finest on the ground.

COLLARS AND SLEEVES MOST IMPORTANT DETAILS OF ALL FROCKS.

Kimono and drop-shoulder sleeves are so universal that the regulation set-in sleeve seems decidedly old fashioned; many tailors and dressmakers, however, predict that the set-in sleeve will be equally favored next season. In collars we are allowed to go as far as we like; many of them are very novel, some even freakish. The Gladstone is the newest collar; it is usually developed in a sheer stuff like organdy, batiste or thin muslin and stands away from the throat a bit in Japanese fashion. This fad of wearing sheer white collars with dark frocks has taken a strong hold on the fancy this season; they are seen even on the dressy afternoon frock of taffetas or other silk.

No. 8252 is smartly developed in one of the printed Egyptian crepes; the ground is a soft yellow and the figures are in green, yellow and red. Collar and cuffs are of white organdy, and as an added bit of contrast there is an effective girdle of striped silk. The blouse is kimono in raglan effect, and the skirt is in three pieces, with pleats front and back.

These crepes may be purchased from $1.50 a yard and up.

This frock requires for size 36, 5½ yards of 36 inch material.

No. 8248 is a soft taffetas with a Japanese design in rich Oriental colorings; the ground is Nattier blue. A round, flat collar with a frilled edge is a feature of this frock, and the two gathered, graduated ruffles over the hips are new and quaint.

Taffetas range in price from $1.25 a yard to $4.50.

In size 36 this dress requires 4⅞ yards of 36 inch material.

No. 8252—sizes 34 to 46.
No. 8248—sizes 34 to 42.
Each pattern 15 cents.

These patterns for sale by the Racket Store. L. F. Miller.

Republicans Arriving in Indianapolis State Convention To Be Held April 22-23.

Republicans from many parts of Indiana began arriving at Indianapolis today to attend the Republican state convention, which opens in Tomlinson Hall at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Several delegations are scheduled to arrive from various parts of the state tonight, and the delegates will arrive tomorrow.

William A. Prendergast, controller for the city of New York, will be the chief orator at Wednesday's session. He will reach there at 10:55 o'clock Wednesday morning and will be met by a committee headed by Caleb S. Denney, former mayor of Indianapolis. Word was received at Republican headquarters in the Hotel Severin yesterday that George F. McCullough, former Republican state chairman, now living in New York, will attend the convention.

The names of several new candidates for places on the state ticket were made known at the headquarters yesterday, George C. Peed of Hazelton, Gibson County, will be a candidate for treasurer of state, according to an announcement received yesterday. E. E. VanScoyce of Tippecanoe County will be a candidate for state geologist.

The name of Edward Roth of Crawfordsville has been added to the list of candidates for auditor of state. Two new candidates came out yesterday for clerk of the Supreme and Appellate Courts. One is Will H. Adams of Wabash and the other is John B. Lloyd of Marion county.

M. A. Chipman of Anderson., E. A. Barton of Angola, U. S. Lesh of Huntington, Truman H. Palmer of Monticello and William A. Thompson of Muncie were added to the list of candidates for judge of the Appellate Courtr, Second District.

Wednesday's session will be given over to the speech of Mr. Prendergast, the report of the committeee on credentials and the committee on rules and permanent organization. The nominations will be made and the platform adopted Thursday.

Ministers in Session.

By United Press.

Michigan City, Ind., April 20.—The Ministerial Assoeication of the Hammond district, Northwest Indiana Conference of the Methodist church, met here today in annual conference. The session will continue until tomorrow evening. Forty pastors and several lay members of the district are in attendance. Bishop William F. McDowell will deliver an address tomorrow afternoon, and Superintendent W. A. Wirt of the Gary schools will tell the conference tomorrow evening to make a city a fit place to rear children.

A Woman Doctor

says, "Eugenics is a necessary factor in the future of the race. The average American girl is unfit for motherhood." This may be true, but if weak and ailing girls passing from girlhood to womanhood, would only rely, as as thousands do, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—that simple remedy made from roots and herbs,—to restore the system to a normal healthy condition, it would cause many ill from which they suffer to disappear, so that motherhood might become the joy of their lives.

The Delco System cranks your car, lights your lamps, ignites the charge in the cylinder. One system—control from the driver's seat.

ARE you going to have a 1914 Buick?

No matter how much you can afford to pay, we honestly believe that there is no other line that assures you the worth of your money the way a Buick does.

The Buick develops more power than other cars because of its overhead valve motor. It was Buick power that sent a motor car across the Andes mountains for the first time in history. Other American cars tried and failed. Foreign cars tried it and failed. But the Buick pulled its way across.

Confidence in your car is the backbone of the enjoyment you take in it. Whether for business or pleasure, the car that can be depended upon to take you anywhere you want to go and bring you back again is the car you like the best. Being held up along the road or in the garage is expensive. The Buick is a dependable and an economical car, and it has the appearance that makes the people you pass take that second look. And it rides easy.

No matter what kind of car you want, you'll find it in the Buick line.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The Republican state convention which will be held at Indianapolis Wednesday and Thursday of this week will be a manifestion of the "come back" qualities of the Republican party. Democrats and other enemies of the organization who have been hoping that the party was woefully split in twain will come to the realization that it is on a substantial basis ready to carry the banner of prosperity in the fight to be waged next November in the interests of the American people. Every report concerning the approaching convention and the Republican party in general indicates very strongly that new members are enlisting daily and that it will be in an excellent position this fall to make a winning fight.

There are several reasons why such general interest is shown in the principles of government as enunciated by the Republican party. In the first place the Democratic tariff revision has proven very unsatisfactory. The reduced cost of living which was promised by the Democratic campaign speakers is so low that thousands of American working men today are out of employment because of the general business depression throughout the country. In an effort to lower the cost of farm products to the ultimate consumer the tariff rate has in effect reduced the rates of the former without any reduction whatever in the cost to the consumer. The American farmer is now compelled to compete with Argentine corn which can be sold in this country at a much lower price than can be profitably made by the American grower.

The Republican party stands for the protection of home products. It favors activity in the industrial circles so that the vast army of workingmen may find employment at good wages with the result that they can purchase the necessities and comforts needed by themselves and their families.

The Republican party has steadily gained in numbers since the last election. It has virtually undergone an entire reorganization and is on a better basis and in a more favorable position to make a winning fight than for several years. Many of those who left the party two years ago did so not because they were opposed to the Republican party, or because they felt that a new organization should take its place, but because they were unfavorable to its candidate. This fact is being shown by the numbers of prominent men who have announced their allegiance to the Republican party this year. The Republicans are fighting the battle for the American people. In Indiana they are fighting to restore the state business upon a substantial basis and to give the taxpayers the full value for public funds expended.

Every Republican who can arrange to attend should be present at the state convention. It promises to be one of the most enthusiastic conventions ever held in Indianapolis. Speakers who have given serious thought to present industrial conditions have been secured for addresses. Their presentation of the situation will be well worth the while of any citizen who desires to become informed regarding the government. Able men, qualified to occupy the public offices of this great commonwealth will be nominated at the convention. After this meeting is over the party leaders will begin at once towards making arrangements for the campaign. The results of the November election will show that the Indiana voters are opposed to the willful waste of public money, extravagance in public office and the creation of high salaried jobs for the faithful machine workers.

AMERICAN FIGHTING FORCES.

The short time required to equip the American war ships and start them on their way towards the Mexican waters is an excellent illustration of how quickly this country can prepare for war. Although our navy is not the largest in the world all of our war vessels are in first class condition and are kept in readiness for any emergency that may arise. The navy is conducted along lines of efficiency rather than numbers. Every member of the crew is well drilled and knows exactly what to do. With our naval equipment every port in Mexico could be blockaded and in a very few days' time all transportation and communication could be practically cut off.

While our standing army is not as large as many believe it should be the soldiers are well drilled and the spirit of bravery, honor and patriotism is inculcated by the army officers. With our thousands of state militiamen the standing army could be augmented at any time. The state guardsmen are well drilled and while they would not be at their best at an emergency call, it would require but a month or so at the front to put them in first class fighting form. Besides the standing army and the national guards thousands of young men in America are ready to enlist if war is declared and their services are needed. A dispatch from New York City today says that a line of able-bodied men awaited their turn at the door of the recruiting office throughout the night. This is an example of the ready response which would follow a call for volunteers.

In the present Mexican situation the United States could greatly outnumber the Mexican army if it should be necessary to fight that country. If Huerta received no support from the rebel forces he could not raise an army of probably more than 50,000 men. Such an army could not long resist the attacks of an American army of much greater number. The American people need have no worry about an efficient fighting force. Of course, it is to be hoped that it will not be necessary to even send American soldiers into that country. Everyone trusts that the navy will be able to cope with the situation successfully but if the call is made to the militiamen or for volunteers they will respond with a readiness that marks American patriotism and will defend the honor of the flag and the dignity of the country with the same valor, the same courage and the same loyalty that characterized American soldiering in our former conflicts some of which were successfully fought against heavy odds.

PEACE FIRST.

While the people of the United States are urgently insisting that the administration shall compel President Huerta to apologize for the affronts offered this nation, the great majority are hopeful that actual warfare may not be necessary. President Wilson has given out a statement to the effect that Huerta may be brought to terms by a peaceable blockade of the principal Mexican ports. If this can be done successfully the dignity of the United States will be upheld without the loss of life and bloodshed incident to open warfare. With almost any other nation of the world the present situation between the United States and Mexico could have been avoided. But in Mexico there is no government. While Huerta is at the head of the federal government the indications point strongly to his early downfall and the ascension of rebel leaders into places of power and authority

President Wilson is acting wisely in refusing to recognize the Huerta government in Mexico. If he should take official knowledge of the federal faction, the situation would be more complex as the rebels would more than likely aid in war against this country. As the situation now stands the demands have been made only of Huerta and the United States has taken the attitude that Mexico as a government does not approve of Huerta's course.

A declaration of war by the United States against Mexico or more strictly speaking against the Huerta faction is just what Huerta desires. Either of two results would be greatly to his benefit. Firstly, he is hopeful that such a declaration of war would unite the various factions in Mexico to the support of his government which is otherwise doomed to destruction. On the other hand Huerta must realize that his cause is lost and that he cannot long hold out against his enemies. In case he is defeated he would be taken prisoner by the rebel generals and shot as an enemy to the country. If the United States places Mexico under military control, Huerta knows that he would be given personal protection and would much rather surrender to the United States than be defeated by the enemies in his own country.

HUERTA AT LAST HEARS ULTIMATUM

"Our Terms Unconditional."

WILSON'S LAST WORD

Patience With Mexican Dictator's Paltering Ways Ended

OPEN DECLARATION OF WAR

Regarded As Inevitable Consequence of Latest Step.

Washington, April 20.—Refusing to order a salute of apology to the American flag, Huerta has defied the United States. That is his answer to President Wilson's ultimatum.

The president in reply will appear before a joint session of congress this afternoon and ask for authority to use the army and navy to enforce the demands of the United States. This request will be granted immediately and orders will be issued for the blockading and seizure of all Mexican ports on the east and west coasts of the southern republic.

This movement, while not in itself an act of war, is almost certain to involve hostilities, and officials in Washington have accepted as inevitable an open declaration of war with Mexico.

The news of Huerta's refusal was flashed by wireless to Admiral Badger, commanding the Atlantic fleet now hurrying toward Mexico, and to the commanders of the American war vessels already in Mexican waters. They will not, however, make any definite move against Mexico until congress has acted. With the passage of the joint resolution by the legislative branch, orders will go forth for immediate action. The ports of Tampico and Vera Cruz will be the first to be seized. Railroad communication to Mexico City will be interrupted and an effort will be made to starve Huerta into submission through cutting off his customs receipts and his supplies of ammunition.

Huerta's defiance came after a day of haggling by him. It came after President Wilson had again served notice in the most emphatic terms that his demand for a salute was unconditional. The exact words of the message which the president sent to Mr. Bryan from White Sulphur Springs, where the president spent Sunday with Mrs. Wilson, and which ended all hope on the part of Huerta for a modification of this government's ultimatum were these:

"Tell O'Shaughnessy our terms are unconditional in every detail."

The vigorous telegram from the president was caused by an eleventh hour demanded on the part of Huerta that the United States through Charge O'Shaughnessy in Mexico City, should enter into a formal protocol giving his assurances that this government would fire a return salute to the Mexican salute of apology. President Wilson informed Huerta that the United States would not give him a single guarantee beyond the statement contained in Admiral Mayo's original demanad on the Mexican general, which stipulated that an American war vessel would return the Mexican salute. Huerta had signified his willingness to yield his demand for a simultaneous salute provided this government would grant his request for formal assurances as to twenty-one guns in reply.

At the Bryan home a long-distance telephone wire had been set up direct to the president's room at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. The O'Shaughnessy dispatch was read to the president and he immediately declared that the incident was closed. He instructed his secretary, Mr. Tumulty, to call a special meeting of the cabinet for 10:30 this morning and to make arrangements for a joint session of congress at as early an hour in the afternoon as possible.

The president's ultimatum, communicated through Charge O'Shaughnessy, concluded as follows:

"General Huerta can arrange details with Admiral Mayo if he reconsiders the position taken by him. Should he adhere to the position he has taken, you will make the contents of this telegram known to the representatives of foreign governments at once and send a paraphrase of the telegram to all consulates of America stationed in Mexico so that it may be communicated to American citizens, who should at the same time be reminded of the president's advice to withdraw from Mexico until order is restored."

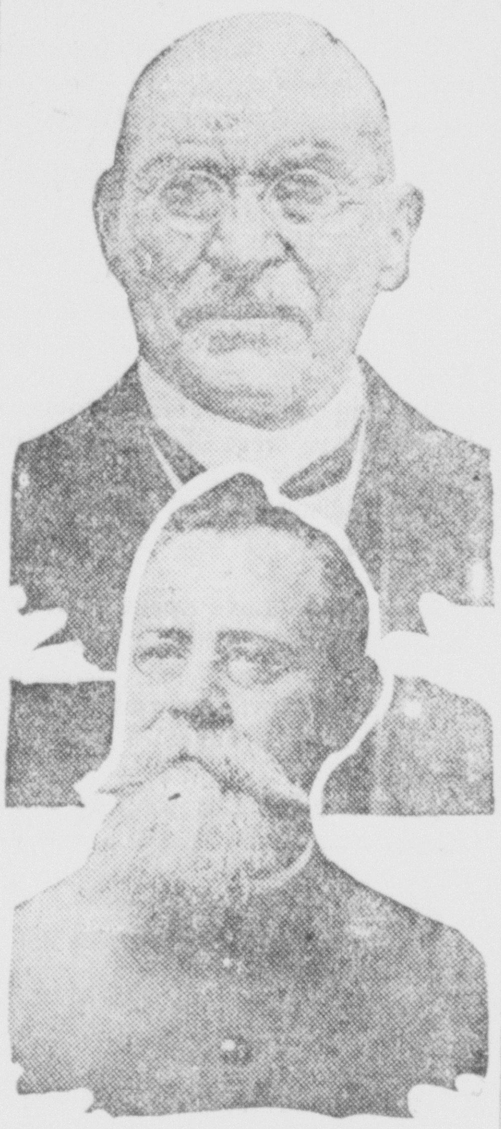
MAY JOIN FORCES

Huerta and Carranza Would Unite in Face of Common Foe.



Photos by American Press Association.

UNITED MEXICO WOULD RALLY AT FIRST SHOT

Rebels Would Join Huerta Against Common Foe.

El Paso, April 20.—In Juarez considerable excitement is apparent over the outcome of the Tampico negotiations between the United States and Huerta. The general attitude of the rebel officials appears to be that so long as the United States confines its repressive measures against the Huerta government to a blockade of ports held by Huerta, the rebels will not resent it, but at the first firing of a shot against Mexican territory the rebels will resent it with arms. In the event of a blockade against the port of Juarez and other ports held by the rebels, they appear to be generally of the opinion that they would be forced to resent with arms.

A military guard has been placed over the waterworks reservoir and various telephone cables in the city of El Paso. The gas and electric plants have been under military guard for several months.

Another federal prisoner in the camp at Fort Bliss tried to escape Saturday night and the guard fired at him but missed him. The federal prisoners are showing an ugly spirit toward their American soldier guards. Miguel Acuna, a Guatemalan, who claims to have a commission from Provisional President Huerta to treat with the Constitutionalists for an offensive and defensive alliance against a foreign foe, has left Juarez for the city of Chihuahua. Several days ago he was denied permission to make the trip, but since the Huerta-United States incident has become so acute he was given permission to go to Chihuahua. Pancho Villa is said to have left Torreon for Chihuahau to confer with Carranza and Acuna is said to be planning to present his case to the two.

OUR FLAG WAS NOT INSULTED

This Is the View That Mexicans Take.

INCOMPATIBLE WITH DIGNITY

The Demand of the United States For an Unconditional Salute Cannot Be Granted, Says Mexican Government, Because Our Flag Was Not Insulted, According to View Taken in Mexico City.

Mexico City, April 20.—The Mexican minister, Senor Portillo y Rojas, announced Sunday night that it would be impossible to agree to the demand of the United States that the ag of that country be unconditionally salut- of the United States that the flag of because it was not flying from the launch, and because the marines were set free even before an investigation, and the officer responsible for the arrests was himself arrested and held for trial.

The foreign minister further announced that the Mexican government would agree that both flags be saluted, the American flag first and then the Mexican flag, this arrangement to be made by a protocol signed by the American charge d'affaires, Nelson O'Shaughnessy, and the Mexican foreign minister.

The United States government, Senor Portillo declared, had refused permission to Charge O'Shaughnessy to sign such a protocol, and demanded an unconditional salute by Mexico, which Mexico felt was incompatible with her dignity.

In conclusion the foreign minister said:

"Mexico has yielded as much as her dignity will permit. Mexico trusts to the fair-mindedness of spirit and justice of the American people."

GOOD COUNSEL FOR BOYS

Pray That War May Be Averted, Mr. Taft Tells Them.

New Haven, Conn., April 20.—Twenty-five hundred Yale students last night took part in a spontaneous demonstration favoring war with Mexico. Former President William H. Taft, President Arthur T. Hadley and Secretary Stokes addressed the men who marched to their home and called for speeches of war.

Professor Taft said: "There are a great many circumstances which may yet prevent war. Every lover of his country ought to pray that this national calamity may be averted.

"The president, as the men in my constitutional law class know, has no power to declare war. That power rests with the congress. While I believe it may be inferred that congress will stand behind the president in his position, it is not impossible that before congress takes any step that is decided war, Mexico may comply with the United States' demand."

A SAFE REFUGE IS OFFERED

Aliens in Blockaded Ports Will Be Cared For by Uncle Sam.

Vera Cruz, April 20.—Rear Admiral Cradock, commanding the British fleet in Mexican waters has arrived here on the cruiser Essex. He has had a conference with Rear Admiral Fletcher, the American commander.

Secretary of State Bryan has instructed William W. Canada, the United States consul here, to notify all consulates that the United States will receive citizens of all countries as refugees here. The refugees of nations other than United States must present themselves with the recommendations of their consuls.

His wife heard him call good-by and when she reached his side he was attempting to swallow more poison from a tumbler. Ill health is supposed to have prompted the act.

Her Clothing Caught Fire.

CONGRESS'S PART IN PRESENT SITUATION

Permission to Go to Extremes Must Come From It.

Washington, April 20.—This afternoon congress convened under circumstances almost as feverish as those which preceded the Spanish-American war. The president probably will deliver his address late in the afternoon unless General Huerta should recede from the attitude to salute. It was said in an official quarter that if Huerta relaxed at the last moment the president's address probably would be indefinitely postponed. So eager is the administration and the congress leaders to avoid a conflict that they will not draw the lines closely and insist upon strict compliance within the time limit fixed in the ultimatum.

There appears to be little doubt as to what the president will ask of congress. He probably will state the facts of the situation to the senators and representatives, reciting fully the provocation on the part of Huerta, the repeated indignities put upon the United States, winding up with the arrest and detention of the paymaster and marines at Tampico and the refusal to make a proper amend by saluting the United States colors. This recital of offenses is likely to stir congress profoundly. The flag incident is likely to pale into insignificance compared with some of the other outrages on the national honor

The president will ask permission to use the army and the navy to enforce compliance with the reasonable demands of the United States in the premises and authority to call out the militia of the states if it should be necessary. When this action was taken substantially by President McKinley and congress responded by passing a resolution granting authority, the act was construed by Spain as a declaration of war, although technically it was not such. The formal declaration of war by congress followed two days later as the result of the attitude of Spain. One of the first acts following the message of Mr. McKinley asking authority to use the land and sea forces was the passage of a resolution appropriating $50,000,000 and placing it at the disposal of the president to be used as in his judgment might seem proper to protect the interests and the honor of the country. It is likely that congress will find it necessary in a short time to make a large appropriation to meet the increased expenses due to aggressive military movements.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS IN CASE OF INVASICN

War Department Making Plans for Army's Increase.

Washington, April 20.—The war department has worked out plans for a call for volunteers in case invasion of Mexico becomes necessary. It is understood at the department that the first call will be for 250,000 men. This will include the military reserves.

Authorization for the call is necessary from congress under an act to provide for temporarily increasing the military establishment of the United States in time of war.

The volunteers would be apportioned as far as practicable among the states and territories and District of Columbia according to population and will enlist to serve two years, unless sooner discharged.

Death of Charles S. Hernly.

Newcastle, Ind., April 20.—Charles S. Hernly, 58 years old, former chairman of the Republican state committee is dead at his home in this city after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Hernly was born in Newcastle September 23, 1856.

No Expense For Nomination.

South Bend, Ind., April 20.—Senator B. F. Shively did not spend a penny to obtain his nomination in the Indiana Democratic convention, according to his statement filed with the clerk of St. Joseph county.

The Case of Jennie Brice

By

MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Copyright, 1913, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

CHAPTER XI.

THE prosecution produced many witnesses during the next two days; Shanty Boat Tim's story withstood the most vigorous cross examination. After him, Mr. Bronson from the theater corroborated Miss Hope's story of Jennie Brice's attack of hysteria in the dressing room and told of taking her home that night.

He was a poor witness, nervous and halting. He weighed each word before he said it, and he made a general unfavorable impression. I thought he was holding something back. In view of what Mr. Pitman would have called the denouement, his attitude is easily explained. But I was puzzled then.

So far, the prosecution had touched but lightly on the possible motive for a crime—the woman. But on the third day, to my surprise, a Mrs. Agnes Murray was called. It was the Mrs. Murray I had seen at the morgue.

I have lost the clipping of that day's trial, but I remember her testimony perfectly.

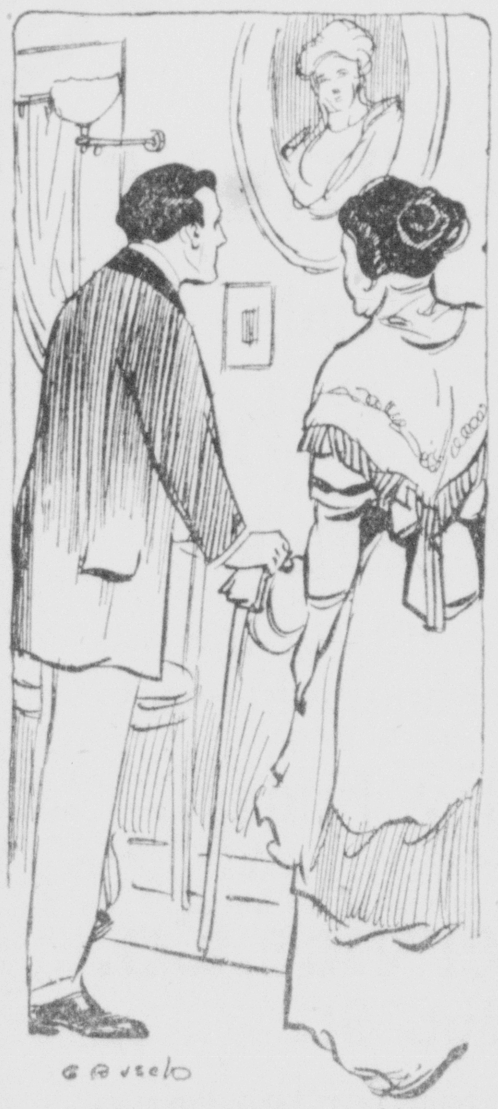
She was a widow, living above a small millinery shop on Federal street, Allegheny. She had one daughter, Alice, who did stenograpy and typing as a means of livelihood. She had no office and worked at home. Many of the small stores in the neighborhood employed her to send out their bills. There was a card at the street entrance beside the shop, and now and then strangers brought her work.

Early in December the prisoner had brought her the manuscript of a play to type, and from that time on he came frequently, sometimes every day, bringing a few sheets of manuscript at a time. Sometimes he came without any manuscript and would sit and talk while he smoked a cigarette. They had thought him unmarried.

On Wednesday, Feb. 28, Alice Murray had disappeared. She had taken some of her clothing—not all—and had left a note. The witness read the note aloud in a trembling voice:

> Dear Mother—When you get this I shall be married to Mr. Ladley. Don't worry. Will write again from N. Y. Lovingly,
> ALICE.

From that time until a week before she had not heard from her daughter.



"That's curious!" he said.

Then she had a card, mailed from Madison Square station, New York city. The card merely said:

> Am well and working. ALICE.

The defense was visibly shaken. They had not expected this, and I thought even Mr. Ladley, whose calm had continued unbroken, paled.

So far all had gone well for the prosecution. They had proved—a crime, as nearly as circumstantial evidence could prove a crime, and they had established a motive. But in the identification of the body so far they had failed. The prosecution "rested," as they say, although they didn't rest much on the afternoon of the third day.

The defense called, first of all, Eliza Shaeffer. She told of a woman answering the general description of Jennie Brice having spent two days at the Shaeffer farm at Horner. Being shown photographs of Jennie Brice, she said she thought it was the same woman, but was not certain. She told further of the woman leaving unexpectedly on Wednesday of that week from Thornville. On cross examination being shown the small photograph which Mr. Graves had shown me, she identified the woman in the group as being the woman in question. As the face was in shadow, knew it more by the dress and hat. She described the black and white dress and the hat with red trimming.

The defense then called me. I had to admit that the dress and hat as described were almost certainly the ones I had seen on the bed in Jennie Brice's room the day before she disappeared. I could not say definitely whether the woman in the photograph was Jennie Brice or not; under a magnifying glass thought it might be.

Defense called Jonathan Alexander, a druggist who testified that on the night in question he had been roused at half past 3 by the prisoner, who had said his wife was ill, and had purchased a bottle of proprietary remedy from him. His identification was absolute.

The defense called Jennie Brice's sister, and endeavored to prove that Jennie Brice had had no such scar. It was shown that she was on intimate terms with her family and would hardly have concealed an operation of any gravity from them.

The defense scored that day. They had shown that the prisoner had told the truth when he said he had gone to a pharmacy for medicine that night for his wife, and they had shown that a woman, answering the description of Jennie Brice, spent two days in a town called Horner, and had gone from there on Wednesday after the crime. And they had shown that this woman was attired as Jennie Brice had been.

That was the way things stood on the afternoon of the fourth day when court adjourned.

Mr. Reynolds was at home when I got there. He had been very much subdued since the developments of that first day of the trial, sat mostly in his own room and had twice brought me a bunch of jonquils as a peace offering. He had the kettle boiling when I got home.

"You have had a number of visitors," he said. "Our young friend Howell has been here, and Mr. Holcombe has arrived and has a man in his room."

Mr. Holcombe came down a moment after, with his face beaming.

"I think we've got him, Mrs. Pitman," he said. "The jury won't even go out of the box."

But further than that he would not explain. He said he had a witness locked in his room, and he'd be glad of supper for him, as they'd both come a long way. And he went out and bought some oysters and a bottle or two of beer. But as far as I know he kept him locked up all that night in the second story front room. I don't think the man knew he was a prisoner. I went in to turn down the bed, and he was sitting by the window, reading the evening paper's account of the trial—an elderly gentleman, rather professional looking.

Mr. Holcombe slept on the upper landing of the hall that night, rolled in a blanket—not that I think his witness even thought of escaping, but the little man was taking no chances.

At 8 o'clock that night the bell rang. It was Mr. Howell. I admitted him myself, and he followed me back to the dining room. I had not seen him for several weeks, and the change in him startled me. He was dressed carefully, but his eyes were sunken in his head, and he looked as if he had not slept for days.

Mr. Reynolds had gone upstairs, not finding me socially inclined.

"You haven't been sick, Mr. Howell, have you?" I asked.

"Oh, no, I'm well enough. I've been traveling about. Those infernal sleeping cars"—

His voice trailed off, and I saw him looking at my mother's picture, with the jonquils beneath.

"That's curious!" he said, going closer. "It—it looks almost like Lida Harvey."

"My mother," I said simply.

"Have you seen her lately?"

"My mother?" I asked, startled.

"No, Lida."

"I saw her a few days ago."

"Here?"

"Yes; she came here, Mr. Howell, two weeks ago. She looks badly—as if she is worrying."

"Not—about me?" he asked eagerly.

"Yes, about you. What possessed you to go away as you did? When my—bro—when her uncle accused you of something you ran away instead of facing things like a man."

"I was trying to find the one person who could clear me, Mrs. Pitman." He sat back, with his eyes closed. He looked ill enough to be in bed.

"And you succeeded?"

"No."

I thought perhaps he had not been eating, and I offered him food, as I had once before. But he refused it, with the ghost of his boyish smile.

"I'm hungry, but it's not food I want. I want to see her," he said.

I sat down across from him and tried to mend a tablecloth, but I could not sew. I kept seeing those two young things, each sick for a sight of the other, and, from wishing they could have a minute together, I got to planning it for them.

"Perhaps," I said finally, "if you want it very much"—

"Very much!"

"And if you will sit quiet and stop tapping your fingers together until you drive me crazy I might contrive it for you. For five minutes," I said. "Not a second longer."

He came right over and put his arms around me.

"Who are you, anyhow?" he said. "You who turn to the world the frozen mask of a Union street boarding house landlady, who are a gentlewoman by every instinct and training and a girl at heart? Who are you?"

"I'll tell you what I am," I said. "I'm a romantic old fool, and you'd better let me do this quickly before I change my mind."

He freed me at that, but he followed to the telephone and stood by while I got Lida. He was in a perfect frenzy of anxiety, turning red and white by turns, and in the middle of the conversation taking the receiver bodily from me and holding it to his own ear.

She said she thought she could get away; she spoke guardedly as if Alma were near, but I gathered that she would come as soon as she could, and, from the way her voice broke, I knew she was as excited as the boy beside me.

She came, heavily coated and veiled, at a quarter after 10 that night, and I took her back to the dining room, where he was waiting. He did not make a move toward her, but stood there with his very lips white, looking at her. And at first she did not make a move either, but stood and gazed at him, thin and white, a wreck of himself. Then:

"Ell!" she cried, and ran around the table to him as he held out his arms.

The schoolteacher was out. I went into the parlor bedroom and sat in the cozy corner in the dark. I had done a wrong thing, and I was glad of it. And, sitting there in the darkness, I went over my life again. After all, it had been my own life; I had lived it; no one else had shaped it for me. And if it was cheerless and colorless now, it had had its big moments. Life is measured by big moments.

If I let the two children in the dining room have fifteen big moments instead of five who can blame me?

The next day was the sensational one of the trial. We went through every phase of conviction: Jennie Brice was living. Jennie Brice was dead. The body found at Sewickley could not be Jennie Brice's. The body found at Sewickley was Jennie Brice's. And so it went on.

The defense did an unexpected thing in putting Mr. Ladley on the stand. That day, for the first time, he showed the wear and tear of the ordeal. He had no flower in his buttonhole, and the rims of his eyes were red. But he was quite cool. His stage training had taught him not only to endure the eyes of the crowd, but to find in its gaze a sort of stimulant. He made a good witness I must admit.

He replied to the usual questions easily. After five minutes or so Mr Llewellyn got down to work.

GOSSIP FROM THE CAPITAL

Bits of Washington News of Particular Interest to Hoosiers.

Washington, April 20.—All of the Indiana members of the house except Representative Gray will be asked to contribute $5 each toward a fund to buy a wedding present for Miss Eleanor Wilson, who is to marry Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. A committee was chosen to make the collections. Representative Gray will not be asked to subscribe. When a similar fund was being raised for a present for Miss Jessie Wilson he declined to subscribe, but donated $5 to charity instead.

Representative Barnhart has appealed to President Wilson to appoint Captain A. G. Wood to be postmaster of Warsaw. Captain Wood is seventy-nine years old, and because he is beyond the age limit prescribed by the postoffice department, the postmaster general has declined to approve Mr. Barnhart's recommendation.

The Indiana Society of Washington held an old-fashioned spelling bee at the Ebbitt house. W. J. Ethell, formerly of Anderson, and Mrs. James P. Hornaday, formerly of Indianapolis, were in charge of the opposing teams. A musical entertainment concluded the program.

A TWO DAYS' CONVENTION

Indiana Republicans Not Content With One Day's Meeting.

Indianapolis, April 20.—Republicans from many parts of Indiana are arriving in Indianapolis today to attend the Republican state convention, which opens in Tomlinson hall at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. William A. Prendergast, controller for the city of New York, will be the chief orator at Wednesday's session, which will be given over to the speech of Mr. Prendergast, the report of the committee on credentials and the committee on rules and permanent organization. The nominations will be made and the platform adopted Thursday.

Peru, Ind., April 20.—Ivan Wade, thirty-five years old, was found dead in bed and an open gas jet showed the cause, which is believed to have been accidental.

ALFALFA.

What makes the landscape look so fair;
What blossoms bright perfume the air;
What plant repays the farmer's toil,
And will enrich the wornout soil?
Alfalfa!

What is the crop that always pays,
Which may be cut each forty days,
Resisting drought, the frost and heat;
Whose roots reach down full twenty feet?
Alfalfa!

What grows in loam and clay and sand;
What lifts the mortgage off the land;
What crop is cut three times a year,
And of never a failure do you hear?
Alfalfa!

What makes the swine so healthy feel,
And never raise a hungry squeal;
The wholesome food that never fails
To put three curls into their tails?
Alfalfa!

What makes all other stock look nice,
And brings the highest market price;
What fills the milk pails, feeds the calf,
And makes the old cow almost laugh?
Alfalfa!

FLOUR MILL ON FARM.

How One North Dakota Man Gets Greatest Return From Crops.

A North Dakotan realizes the maximum returns from his wheat and rye crops by converting these grains into flour which he sells at $3 a hundred pounds. In his locality it was practically impossible to obtain good rye, graham or whole wheat flour, so this farmer started growing and grinding his own grain. As he became proficient the quality of the flour improved until finally his neighbors were annually demanding his surplus at handsome prices. This keen demand for high quality flour increased until he decided that it would pay him to equip a small mill thoroughly and to embark in the business on a commercial scale.

A stream of considerable velocity flows through his farm and furnishes the power with which to operate his machinery. He equipped his miniature mill with a crusher, a grinder, a cleaner and an elevator. The income from his flour business during the first two years paid for his plant and equipment and yielded him a good net profit.

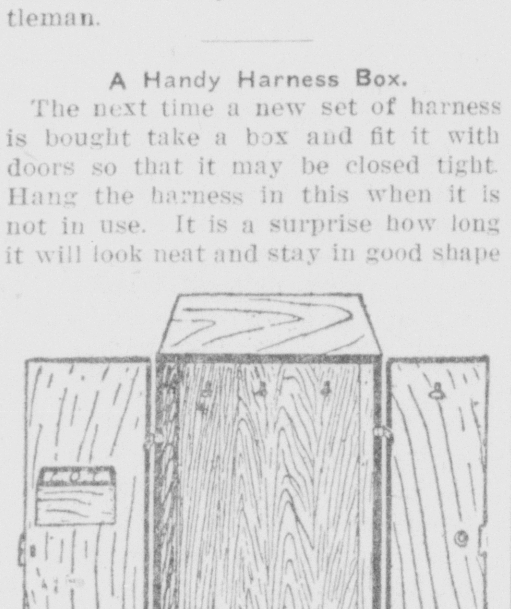
This miller eliminates all the charges that usually go to the middle man. He annually raises about eighty acres of wheat and thirty-five acres of rye. Some of this grain he sells as a cash crop on account of inadequate bin room in which to store it, but more than half of the crop is converted into flour to be used for human food.

A gasoline engine is also maintained as a reserve source of power in case the water power should give out. The marketable flour is neatly sacked and sells for $3 a hundred pounds. Annually the rye and wheat have a farm value of about 60 and 82 cents a bushel respectively where they are sold as cash crops. At a slight expense as regards time and labor this shrewd farmer converts his raw wheat and rye—that in the bulk are worth approximately $1.07 and $1.10 a hundred pounds—into excellent flour that sells for $3 a hundred pounds.

Yearly this progressive farmer is gaining an attractive income from his milling operations, since he also grinds grain for his neighbors. This labor in nowise interferes with his farm work, as the greater share of the mill work is done during the period when field work is relatively slack.—Country Gentleman.

A Handy Harness Box.

The next time a new set of harness is bought take a box and fit it with doors so that it may be closed tight. Hang the harness in this when it is not in use. It is a surprise how long it will look neat and stay in good shape when cared for in this manner. A box 2 by 3 by 4 feet high is a good size. Screw harness hooks will make good hangers. A little box may be attached to the inside of the door for holding combs, brush, etc.



THIS BOX WILL PRESERVE THE HARNESS.

Plowing In Winter.

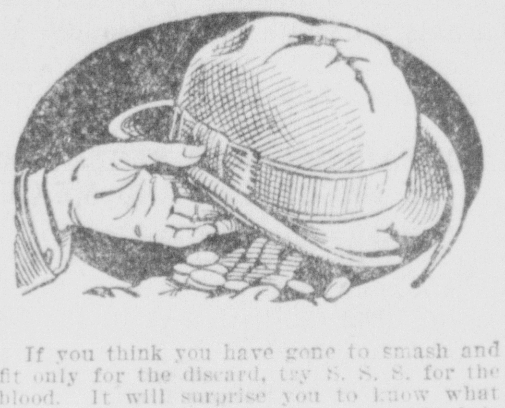
There is a diversity of opinion as to the advisability of plowing in winter.

It is generally conceded, however, that sod lands should be plowed in the winter season. The freezing and thawing of the soil put it in much better condition than it can be put by the plow and harrow after the spring has opened.

Winter plowing also destroys many insects that would damage crops if they were allowed to live.

There will be much more moisture laid up in the soil and saved for the use of the growing crop the next year if the plowing is done during the winter season than there would be if it were left until spring.

The capillary connection with the subsoil will have time to be renewed if the plowing is done early.



Quick Relief When Utterly Worn Out

Getting the Blood in Order Is Required By Most People.

If you think you have gone to smash and fit only for the discard, try S. S. S. for the blood. It will surprise you to know what can be done for health once the blood is released of the excess of body wastes that keep it from exercising its full measure of bodily repair.

If you feel played out, go to any drug store and ask for a bottle of S. S. S. Here is a remedy that gets at work in a twinkling; it just naturally rushes right into your blood, scatters germs right and left, up and down and sideways.

You feel better at once, not from a stimulant, not from the action of drugs, but from the rational effect of a natural medicine.

The ingredients in S. S. S. serve the active purpose of so stimulating the cellular tissues of the body that they pick out from the blood their own essential nutriment and thus repair work begins at once. The relief is general all over the system.

Do not neglect to get a bottle of S. S. S. today. It will make you feel better in just a few minutes. It is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 530 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Send for their free book telling of the many strange conditions that afflict the human family by reason of impoverished blood.

Revolving Mail Boxes.

The use of an old wagon wheel as illustrated here proves very convenient when several boxes are located in one place. The illustration gives all of the explanation necessary for any one handy with tools. The boxes may be set endwise.—Southern Agriculturist.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED JUSTIFYING PRESIDENT EMPLOYING ARMED FORCE

the "line and staff". As a surgeon in the army, Wood was of the staff faction. His rise to power made the West Pointers and others of the "line" faction peevish. But most of them were today willing to admit that the "physician" has done more for the army in his four years as chief of staff than any other one individual.

Not only did Wood have to fight opposition from the army, but he made powerful foes in Congress by his firm stand in favor of abolition of a dozen or more army posts. The army posts have largely been distributed in the past as political favors rather than by strategic choice. It helped a congressman or a senator to have a post in his district. But it resulted in the army being scattered all over the country. General Wood came out for mobilization of the standing forces into half a dozen—no more—concentration posts. He wanted to abandon isolated garrisons and keep the army near big centers.

Wood's greatest achievement as the head of the army was the development of the militia as an authorized auxiliary of the regular army. He has persistently boosted the "reserve enlistment" plan.

He is a fine figure of a man. He is over six feet in height, has the neck, arms and trunk of a gladiator, a face that is firm and purposeful, and makes a figure in the saddle like Mars himself. He walks with a slight limp, due to an injury.

COMPARISON WAR STRENGTH OF UNCLE SAM AND MEXICO

the United States Army is 95,692 men. The total strength of the National Guard, which the President can call out, is 119,000 officers and men.

The reserve or unorganized militia comprises the whole of the manhood of the nation between the ages of 18 and 45 years, all being legally liable to serve for two years Their estimated number is 15,000,000.

The navy of the United States consists of 14 dreadnaughts, six old battleships, ten first-rate armoured cruisers, two second-rate armoured cruisers, four monitors, 15 protected cruisers, three scout cruisers, 52 destroyers, 24 first-class torpedo boats, six second-class torpedo boats and 40 submarines.

LARGE AUDIENCES ATTENDED CHRISTIAN CHURCH SERVICES

Evangelist J. Bennett Delivered First Sermon at Special Meeting Sunday Night.

Evangeilst J. Bennett, of Chicago, opened the special series of meetings at the Christian church Sunday night and preached a splendid sermon to a large audience. His subject tonight is the "Dynamite of God." Special solos will be sung.

About fifty have joined the Booster Band or chorus and others have signified their intention of joining. The Band meets each evening before the regular services. New members may join until Tuesday evening. Both Evangelist Bennett and his pianist, H. V. Sechrist, of Alexandria, are soloists and will assist in the chorus work. Considerable enthusiasm is already shown in the meetings and the church is making arrangements to accomodate large audiences each night this week.

AN A B C THOUGHT FOR THE MERCHANT.

Advertising creates a desire to see the goods advertised.

Advertising of a nationally distributed product in the local newspapers which are read by the people with whom you do business every day, will lead "that desire to see" right to your store.

It is simply business horsesense to show the people what they want to see.

In other words, when you display and push goods advertised in your local newspapers, you are making your store a Public Service Store in the best sense of the word.

That's the A B C of the whole situation.

MRS. BARBARA FETTIG IS CALLED BY DEATH SUNDAY

with her parents and for a number of years lived near Hayden. In September, 1855 she was united in marriage to Mr. Fettig and five years later they moved to Seymour where he engaged in business. She resided here continuously until her death.

Mrs. Fettig is survived by six children, Philip J., Victor N., Elizabeth N. and Margaret, of Seymour, Peter J., of Connersville, and Bernard H., of Columbus. She also leaves twenty-two grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Werning of this city, and Mrs. Regina Megel, of Indianapolis.

The deceased was a devoted member of the St. Ambrose Catholic church and for more than fifty years was a member of the St. Ann Altar Society. She was quiet and reserved in manner and her many acts of kindness and benevolence were done because they afforded her pleasure. She lived for her family and her decline was rapid since the death of her husband to whom she was devoted. Her death leaves a vacant place occupied by one of the early residents of the city and removes another member of a family prominently connected with the pioneer history of Seymour and this community.

The funeral will occur Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. Ambrose church, conducted by Rev. Father C. J. Conrad. Burial at the Catholic cemetery.

Mrs. Schmidt Dead.

Mrs. Edith M. Schmidt, wife of William Schmidt, died Sunday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Behrman, seven miles west of Cortland. Mrs. Schmidt has been ill for some time with tuberculosis and the family have been in Joplin, Mo., for some months for the benefit of her health. She failed rapidly the last two weeks and her desire was to be returned to her mother's home. Last Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt and children arrived here and she was so ill it was necessary to have an ambulance to take her to Mrs. Behrman's home. Her husband, mother and three children, the youngest of whom is only ten weeks old, survive.

Mrs. Schmidt was born in Bartholomew county twenty-eight years ago and spent most of her life near Cortland. The funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon from the White Creek German M. E. church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Olinger.

Leatha Johnson Dead.

Leatha Johnson, aged fourteen years, died at noon today at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Johnson, 434 South O'Brien street. She had been ill with tuberculosis for some time. The funeral will occur at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the New Driftwood church. The funeral party will leave the residence at 9 o'clock.

did good work in Indianapolis during the flood last year.

General Bridges reviewed the maneuvers of the Indiana National guard in 1898 when war with Spain was declared. It was just at this time of year. Between April 26 and May 10 five thousand men of the Indiana National Guards gathered at the state fair grounds. Regiments were then hastened to Chickamauga as fast as they were placed on a war footing. There the mobilization camp was established. Other similar camps were placed at Jacksonville, Fla., and at Hampton Roads.
